Pat Cooper complains that city agencies neglect his neighborhood: "For instance, there's one pile of garbage that's been in the street so long it was declared a landmark."

Hugh Hefner's girl friend, Barbi Benton, gets the cover photo and nine pages inside in the next issue of Playboy... Los Angeles Mayor Yorty kidded New York cab drivers during his visit: "And how's your pollution?"... And what famous entertainer is leaving the night club scene until she sheds some excess weight?

Dr. Tennyson Guyer once described a hypocrite: "A funeral director trying to look sad at a $5,000 funeral."

Actor Joe Sirola invested $15,000 in an oil well in the Arctic, "as a tax loss"—and the darn thing is pumping 100 barrels a day... Shelly Winters will sing four tunes in her "Bloody Mama" film... David Frost's first U.S. album, for James Records, will be "David Frost Reports—On Everything."

A remembered quote: "Already we can travel faster than sound. Now all we have to do is catch up on common sense."

Comedian London Lee ordered 25 suits from tailor Dimitri of Italy—24 of them without pockets... Lionel Hampton visited the White House to discuss with President Nixon his upcoming State Department tour overseas... The Robert Shaw-Rita Moreno musical, "Gantry," decided in the middle of previews to make a big, expensive staging change. The orchestra will be shifted from the back of the stage to the pit, in view of the audience. Too bad, conductor Arthur Rubinstein won't be able to work in dungarees as planned—it's white tie and tails.

Comic Joey Villa told at the Copa of his first appearance there: "The boss asked me, 'Hey, kid, are you funny?' I was so nervous I said 'No.' After my act he told me, 'Kid I like you—you keep your word.'"

Dean Martin's girl friend, Gail Renshaw, sent a wire to Miss World-USA offices, saying "because of good and sufficient reasons, I will not be able to make any public appearance"—thus paving the way for runner-up Connie Haggard of SMU, Dallas, to become the new Miss World-USA... Lana Cantrell had to do two shows instead of one at El San Juan.

Diana Trask is one of several featured country-western performers taking part in the Hank Williams Memorial Show at the Arena on Sunday, February 22. Other performers include Hank Williams Jr., Lamar Morris and the Drifting Cowboys.
